Practice:
Commercial
Insolvency
Property

Henry joined Guildhall in 2004 following the completion of pupillage. He initially enjoyed a mixed practice, before going on to build a successful career at the criminal bar.

As his criminal practice became increasingly involved with financial and regulatory matters he returned to a civil-based practice concentrating on commercial, insolvency and property work.

Henry currently enjoys a broad ranging commercial/insolvency practice dealing with personal and corporate insolvency, contract and consumer credit disputes, and all aspects of general commercial work, whilst maintaining an interest in regulatory work.
