Georgia has a strong criminal practice, and is regularly instructed to defend and prosecute serious matters in the Crown Court, both on her own and as a led junior, with particular expertise in cases involving serious violence and sexual misconduct. She is a Grade 3 prosecutor.

She has a range of experience across the full spectrum of criminal offences, having represented defendants at trial for allegations including the supply of Class A drugs, conspiracy to supply drugs, sexual assault, rape, knifepoint robbery, s. 18 GBH, fraud and public order act offences. Georgia is equally adept at dealing with allegations of financial crime, including fraud and money laundering.

Georgia has developed an extensive practice in Professional Discipline, having completed a secondment as an advocate with the Regulatory team at Kingsley Napley LLP in 2019. She has since acted for regulators including the HCPC, GOC and ACCA at final hearings.

Georgia has a particular interest in health and care regulation, having also appeared for the Care Quality Commission at the First-Tier Tribunal in various appeals. As such, Georgia is alert to the specific issues that regulated professionals face when facing criminal investigations and/or prosecutions and can assist clients in navigating their regulator.
