Email: holly.doyle@guildhallchambers.co.uk
Tel: 0117 930 9000

Holly is a barrister with a broad range of experience and expertise in insolvency, commercial and property & estates law.

PRACTICE AREAS

- Insolvency
 - Commercial
 - Professional Negligence
 - Banking & Finance
 - Court of Protection

INSOLVENCY

Holly's insolvency / restructuring work (both paperwork and advocacy) spans the full gambit of both personal and corporate insolvency from straightforward winding up / bankruptcy petitions to complex transaction avoidance claims. Chambers UK 2014 notes that "commentators recommend her as a go-to for tricky misfeasance cases, and contested applications for possession and sale".

She is currently acting as junior in a multi million pound insolvency claim involving multiple allegations including misfeasance, preference payments and solicitor's and office holder's negligence. Recent other work includes conducting the trial of a contested possession and sale application which raised issues of equitable accounting and the equity of exoneration and drafting, advising and conducting the trial of a successful claim in respect of two TUVs and a void disposition, which raised interesting issues as to the application of the equitable defence of change of position.

Holly is also a regular speaker at seminars and events.

COMMERCIAL

As a commercial barrister, Holly undertakes advisory work, drafting and litigation in all areas of commercial practice including:

- Contract
- Debts claims
- Agency
- Bailment
- Sale and supply of goods and services
- Corporate disputes (unfair prejudice petitions and derivative actions)
- Insurance
- Restraint of trade and breach of confidence
- Consumer credit and credit hire

She has substantial experience in the County Courts, including interlocutory hearings, fast-track and multi-track trials and appeals.

Holly has a particular interest in the professional indemnity/ negligence field (both claimant and defendant work) and this forms a substantial part of her commercial practice (further details can be found set out under that practice area heading).

PROFESSIONAL NEGLIGENCE

Holly interest in this field stems from a secondment to the Insurance and Re-Insurance Group at CMS Cameron McKenna Solicitors during her pupillage. Professional negligence and indemnity work consequently forms a substantial part of her commercial practice. She undertakes both claimant and defendant work in all areas, from relatively modest claims to those valued in excess of £1m.

Her experience belies her year of call, and includes:

ACCOUNTANTS

- Defending an accountant against allegations of misrepresentation regarding their certification that company accounts met the conditions of a business grant.
- Advising a business owner in respect of negligent advice given by his former accountant with regard to his VAT position.

FINANCIAL ADVISORS

- Defending a financial advisor against an allegation that he negligently failed to deal with an insurance policy upon its maturation so as to provide a source of retirement income.

INSURANCE BROKERS

- Advising on the merits of an additional claim by an insurance broker against a placing broker to claim monies paid out to a client who was allegedly given incorrect advice in relation to policy coverage.
- Advising a Claimant whose ATE insurers had wrongfully denied cover in respect of an adverse costs order in excess of £200,000. The insurers ultimately accepted their position was unsustainable.

CONSTRUCTION PROFESSIONALS

- Defending many and various claims brought against surveyors and valuers by both purchasers in relation to overvaluation of residential and 'buy to let' properties and by banks relating to mortgage and re-mortgage valuations.
- Claim against an architect for alleged negligent design of a construction project, costs estimation and failure to supervise a proper tendering process.
- Claims against a building contractors for defective work to both residential and commercial premises.

SOLICITORS & BARRISTERS

- Defending a firm against allegations of negligence and breach of bailment regarding their possession of client documents.
- Defending a firm against a claim by the joint purchaser of a property for allegedly negligently failing to protect her beneficial interest in the purchased property by an entry on the Land Register.
- Claim against a firm of notaries who failed to advise her properly in respect of a property purchased overseas.
- £1.5m claim against a firm of solicitors for delay in prosecuting litigation which caused significant business losses.

IT PROFESSIONALS

- Claim against a software developer for negligence in relation to the development of a software and hardware system for the processing of card transactions and management of cash payments.

BANKING & FINANCE

Holly undertakes drafting, advisory and litigation work in all aspects of asset recovery for banks and individuals (including consumer credit) and has particular experience in all aspects of mortgage work and guarantees.

She frequently deals with contested applications for possession and is well versed in the very many issues which often arise in the context of such applications, including allegations of undue influence, mistake, misrepresentation, undisclosed beneficial interests, constructive trusts, priorities and subrogation etc.

COURT OF PROTECTION

Holly has recently started building a further specialism in Court of Protection work. She enjoys cases involving personal welfare (including disputes over capacity, residence, care and treatment and deprivations of liberty) , but has a particular wealth of experience to bring to property and affairs cases due to her grounding in commercial and property law. Although just starting to make her mark, she has already been instructed by the Official Solicitor and is looking forward to developing her practice in this area.
