COMMERCIAL WINTER WEBINAR SERIES – SUPREME COURT DECISION: PAKISTAN INTERNATIONAL AIRLINE CORP V TIMES TRAVEL

3 Nov, 2021

COMMERCIAL WINTER WEBINAR SERIES

DATE: WEDNESDAY 3 NOVEMBER 2021

TIME: 9:00AM (1 HOUR)

VENUE: ONLINE

COST: FREE

Supreme Court Decision: Pakistan International Airline Corp v Times Travel

Commercial actors regularly find themselves between a rock and a hard place. Sometimes agreements struck between parties in the heat of the moment will be devoid of consent – the necessary ingredient for making such contracts binding. The question of whether a contract is voidable on grounds of duress – or is simply a bad bargain – can often turn on subtle distinctions.

Join Jay Jagasia and Sam Parsons for a fresh look at lawful act duress through the lens of the Supreme Court's recent decision in Pakistan International Airline Corp v Times Travel.

Related topics will include the legitimacy of demands made by offerors, the problem of 'known unknowns' for offerees, and transatlantic perspectives on implied good faith terms.

Please complete the booking form below should you wish to register for your free place.

You will receive an acknowledgement of receipt. Joining instructions will follow in due course, usually within 24 hours of the webinar.

(Please note that all our webinars are recorded and uploaded to our YouTube channel with a link accessible via our website. Therefore your name as a participant may be viewable or audible)

The Team's previous webinars and materials can be viewed here